EASLEY APPOINTS MANN TO PAROLE COMMISSION

RALEIGH – Gov. Mike Easley has appointed Charles Lee Mann Sr. of Sanford to the North Carolina Post-Release Supervision and Parole Commission.

Mann previously served on the Parole Commission from 1993 to 2000 and has over 30 years of experience with probation and parole. From 1988 to 1990, he served as the administrative assistant to the district attorney for Lee, Harnett and Johnston counties. He is a past chairman of the Lee County chapter of the American Red Cross and served 20 years on the Selective Service board for Lee, Moore, Montgomery and Richmond counties. He also mentors to fifth graders at Edwards Elementary School in Sanford.

The commission advises the governor in clemency matters and makes decisions regarding inmate paroles and post-release supervision. There are three members on the commission, each serving a four-year term. The governor appoints all members.
